

THE PLASTIC SURGERY
FOUNDATION™

The Plastic Surgery Foundation Clinical Research Leaders Scholarship

Application Information and Instructions

The Plastic Surgery Foundation is currently accepting applications for its Clinical Research Leaders Scholarship. Applications are due December 1, 2020.

The purpose of this program is to:

- Enhance the training of ASPS members in clinical research to better prepare them to lead the ASPS and the specialty
- Too build an expert workforce with networks of colleagues in their fields of interest who are prepared to successfully compete for grants and who can capably lead ASPS/PSF research initiatives.

This grant provides funding to support the participation of talented, motivated plastic surgeon-scientists to attend select clinical research training and development programs around the country in order to enhance their skills in outcomes/translational/clinical research. Up to four applicants will be awarded each year to attend the conferences that best meet the goals of the program.

Applicants will identify and propose opportunities that best meet program goals and are most relevant to their career goals and interests. Each awardee will receive up to $2,500 to defray the costs of registration and travel expenses. Applicants are required to include a budget for the total amount that outlines estimated costs for tuition, travel and per diem for lodging. Following are some examples of topics/content that would be relevant for this program:

- How and when to use patient reported outcomes
- Creating new reporting mechanisms
- Design and implementation of clinical trials
- Creating a fundable clinical trial
- Statistical concepts of a trial
- Design of qualitative, quantitative, observational, and mixed methods studies
- R and K award proposal writing
- Career development
- Personalized consultations with experts to review attendees specific research ideas & projects
