

Dr. Seth Thaller, MD, DMD, FACS was born and raised in NYC and its environs. He graduated from Lafayette College in Easton, Pa. in 1971 with a BA and Honors in American History. Seth received his MD from the University of Louisville School of Medicine in 1975, followed by a Straight Internship in Internal Medicine at SUNY Buffalo. In 1978, he completed his DMD from Boston University School of Graduate Dentistry and began his General Surgery Pgy#2-3 at St. Vincent's Medical Center in NYC followed by an Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Residency at The Mass Eye and Ear Infirmary-Harvard Medical School from 1980-83. Then from 1983-85, he completed his Plastic Surgery Residency at Montefiore Medical Center-Albert Einstein College of Medicine. This was followed by a one-year Craniofacial fellowship at UCLA under the mentorship of Dr. Henry Kawamoto. Dr. Thaller is double boarded in both Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery and Plastic Surgery.

His first academic position was at University of California, Davis where he became an Associate Professor with tenure. In 1995, Seth was recruited to follow Dr. D. Ralph Millard to become Program Director, Chief and tenured Professor at The University of Miami Miller School of Medicine. He served in this position for over 20 years when he stepped down. He remains a full-time faculty appointment as well as Chief of Plastic Surgery at the Bruce Carter Miami VA Medical Center.

Dr. Thaller has over 300 peer reviewed journal articles, numerous presentations and books. His present major basic science and clinical research interests center around AI, wound healing, and reconstructive and aesthetic surgery.

Seth has been married to his wife Pat for over 30 years and has a son Steven Cody and daughter Alexandra who both have found successful careers outside of medicine. Outside interests remain reading, attempting to play golf, travel and of course baseball.